Dancing In The Street

Mickey Stevenson, Ivy Jo Hunter and Marvin Gaye wrote ‘Dancing In The Street’. It’s a classic song from the American music company Motown. Motown music is a style of soul music with a pop influence. It was very popular all around the world in the 1960s.

‘Dancing In The Street’ is a song about having fun. Stevenson got the inspiration for the song when he saw teenagers having fun in the streets of Detroit. During the hot Detroit summers, teenagers opened the fire hydrants in the city streets. The streets flooded with water and they played and danced in the water.

Martha Reeves and the Vandellas first recorded the song in 1964 and in 1985 David Bowie and Mick Jagger did a cover of it, too.
